

Camp New Harmony

Camp New Harmony is the San Francisco Folk Music Club's New Year's Celebration for Club members and their families, held at Camp Newman (near Santa Rosa) from Friday, December 27, 2013 to Wednesday, January 1, 2014. We sing, play instruments, dance, eat great food, and ring in the New Year in a wonderful week of music and community.

We welcome newcomers, and if you will be a first-time attendee, please feel free to e-mail or phone with your questions.

NEW!!! Online Registration: Thanks to Will Wheeler, we have a new online registration system, which will be available starting September 16. To register, go to www.sffmc.org and click on the Harmony registration link. The site will guide you through registration, and will send you an e-mail confirmation when you are successful. Margaret Miles and Amelia Hogan are co-registrars; if you encounter any difficulties, please e-mail campnewharmony@gmail.com, or phone 831-331-3705 (before 9:00 p.m.) with your questions.

If you don't have a computer or e-mail: Your public library has free public access computers! We are encouraging everyone to register online, but if you can't do it, we will do it for you: call 831-331-3705. If you do not have e-mail, registrars can mail your confirmation and housing information.

Payment: We will still need to accept your check by mail, since SFFMC is not yet set up to accept online payments. When you register, the site and your confirmation e-mail will tell you where to mail your check.

CAMPERSHIPS

For those who would not otherwise be able to attend camp, the Club offers fee reductions known as "camperships." This year the supply of campership funds is very limited. If you are able to donate to the Campership Fund, remember it is tax-deductible, and you will be helping someone get to camp who may become your next best friend. The funds will be distributed on a first-come, first-served basis on the honor system. We encourage you to register early if asking for a campership. To apply, register for the days you wish, and enter an amount in the box labeled "requested campership". To help distribute the campership fund fairly, this amount can't exceed 50% of your total fees. We encourage you to request less than a 50% campership if you can. The campership amount will then be automatically subtracted from your total. TAX-DEDUCTIBLE DONATIONS to the Campership Fund are welcome and appreciated!

ACTIVITIES

Harmony is a self-made music camp for our Club members of all ages and experience levels. All workshops and activities are camper-led, and any camper can sign up to teach or lead a workshop.

If you would like to lead a workshop, you can sign up at camp, or you can sign up at <http://www.mudcat.org/thread.cfm?ThreadID=151682>.

Look for more information in the Nov/Dec *folk*nik.

For more information about camp, please visit www.sffmc.org! We hope to see you there.

Fold-in/Folk Sing October 27

The fold-in is at noon, Sunday, October 27, at the home of Steve Hughson, 53 Maitland Dr., Alameda, 510-521-1794.

We're always looking for more hands to help at Fold-ins. It's a great jam with a bit of collating on the side. We help with the folknik, enjoy a meal afterwards, and make music. Bring a potluck dish and instruments.

The San Francisco Folk Music Club is a nonprofit corporation dedicated to the enjoyment, preservation and promotion of acoustic music in individual, family, and community life.

“The only thing better than singing is more singing.” — Ella Fitzgerald

Musical Meetings

Musical meetings of the San Francisco Folk Music Club are held every other Friday at 885 Clayton Street, between Carl and Parnassus Streets in San Francisco. Singing and jamming start at 8:00 p.m. Snacks are provided through $1 food kitty donations or finger food contributions. Guests are always welcome, no one is expected to “perform”, and there is no charge.

Visiting Faith

Dorrit Gerushi writes: Faith Petric is currently in hospice care and would love some visitors. She loves to have people come and play music for her, or bring her CDs to listen to, or read to her, or just visit with her. Sign up at <https://www.lotsahelpinghands.com/c/624715/> on the calendar on her website, or contact me to get on the schedule at dorritgerushi@gmail.com/510-495-5432.

Ingrid Noyes writes: Hi, folks, I've had some nice visits with Faith, and I wish I lived closer, but since I'm geographically challenged, I'm here to remind those of you who live closer to please sign up for a visit at the link below, and let's give back to Faith. She's given so much to us all these years. Now's the time for us to let her know she's loved and appreciated. Bring her some music, or just your company. I hope some of you can make time to stop by. Thanks! Lotsa Helping Hands list: <https://www.lotsahelpinghands.com/c/624715/>

Beth Berkelehammer writes: I wanted to add that weekends seem to bring the fewest visitors, at least going by what's on the Lots of Helping Hands sign-up calendar. So if you're at work during the week and have some spare time on the weekend, that would be a good time to plan your visit. She really appreciates the company. Faith wants to hear about what's going on in your life, she enjoys some songs, photographs, flowers, fruits—and the packet of 3-Star (around the corner) chocolate truffles disappeared in mere minutes. She was very sharp and cheerful last time I saw her and she was joking with the staff.

Musical Meetings Still Going Strong at 885 Clayton Street!

by the SFFMC Board of Directors

We realize there has been some confusion regarding the status of our regular meetings. Although we are gathering ideas for future locations, we will continue to meet at 885 Clayton Street every other Friday.

When we can no longer meet at 885 Clayton Street, we will make an announcement on the Harmony e-mail list, the Club Web site (www.sffmc.org), and the SFFMC Facebook page.

But we ARE still welcoming your input and suggestions for future folk club locations when the time comes to relocate our meetings.

Please send your suggestions to skynotes321@aol.com and include names, phone numbers and addresses if applicable.

SFFFF Moving Forward

by Marlene McCall

Flushed with success and joy from the wonderful festival just ended, we are already (once again) looking to learn from the past and plan for the future. Please e-mail us at sfff-director@googlegroups.com (an e-mail address that reaches all three festival co-directors Richard Rice, Robin Cohen, and me), while the experience is fresh in your mind, to:

- Let us know what you thought of SFFFF 2013: specific performers, workshops, or jams; the new film program; the new “Music as Vocation” workshop series, the venue itself; the food vendors; the family program. Anything you’d like us to know.
- Make suggestions for 2014: Want to see or hear something or someone new you haven’t seen or heard at the festival before? Have a change you’d like to suggest in what we’re already doing?
- Tell us if you might be interested in having a volunteer role planning the 2014 festival: Don’t worry if you’re not sure what role might best suit your skills and wishes. We’ll help you figure it out.

Come Celebrate Faith's 98th Birthday!

by Charlie Fenton

We have reserved a meeting room at the Coming Home Hospice to have a 98th birthday celebration and group sing with Faith. Though her birthday is actually on September 13, the party will be on Friday, September 6 from 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. This is the night we would have celebrated her birthday at the musical meeting at 885 Clayton. Everyone is encouraged to go to 885 Clayton after 8 p.m.

The room has space for only about 25 people, so it would be best if folks come for an hour or two to make room for others if there is a large crowd. The Coming Home Hospice is located at 115 Diamond St. in San Francisco.

RICHARD THOMPSONRichard Thompson's Cabaret of Souls

Beeswing Records, 2012

Richard Thompson calls his Cabaret of Souls a folk oratorio. It started as a commission for a six-minute piece to honor bass player Danny Thompson (no relation). The CD includes 30 tracks and runs 72 minutes. Richard explains that he got carried away with the idea of showcasing Danny's virtuosity on his instrument. It is, perhaps, a stretch to call this folk music; however, it does have roots in many music traditions. Influences that Richard Thompson cites include Bartok, Ravel, Gilbert and Sullivan, Schoenberg, Stravinsky, and Nelson Riddle, as well as Motown and Egyptian, English folk, and Scottish music. Furthermore, both Richard and Danny Thompson were founders of early British folk-rock bands (Fairport Convention and Pentangle respectively).

Harry Shearer (Spinal Tap, A Mighty Wind, The Simpsons, NPR's Le Show), as the Keeper, is the narrator. Richard Thompson and Judith Owen take turns on lead vocals. Judith is particularly versatile in her characterizations. The music features Richard Thompson on guitar, David Piltch on double bass, Debra Dobkin on percussion and vocals, Peter Zorn on flute, saxophone, and vocals, and the Idyllwild Arts Academy Orchestra (all strings), conducted by Peter Askim.

The oratorio is set in "the place in between" . . . "a very hot place" and "a very cool place," where souls are "waiting for the judgment day." The great variety of musical styles helps distinguish the different characters who sing each song, even though just two people perform all the parts. These flawed souls sing of their lives and convictions to entertain the Keepers and the newly arrived souls in the audience. "The Linnett" sings a lilting waltz of unrequited love. "Clyde Smythe," the art critic, revels in his power to judge artists and their work. "Auldrie Riggs" boasts of his murders to a rollicking music hall tune. A gangster's moll laments how people don't seem to like "My Dave." The religious hypocrite explains how living "Safe in the Bosom of the Lord" allows him the pleasures and temptations he pursues.

After each of the 11 souls sing their stories, the Keeper and his assistants offer a cutting response. For example, the war financier touts his accomplishments in "Breaking Down the Walls" with lies and guns to protect people from each other. The Keepers respond, "Will You Wash Away the Blood" with widow's tears? The cynical Keepers have seen it all, so they dismiss each one. However, in the end, they realize that each of these souls would give anything for "One More Breath."

Listen to Cabaret of Souls in one sitting, when you have time to listen closely. The tales draw on ageless themes and are rich with social commentary. Richard Thompson's songs and arrangements enable double bass player Piltch (standing in for Danny Thompson) and the other musicians to show off their talents. If you ever have a chance to see a performance, don't miss it. Lyrics, performance histories, interviews, photos, tour dates, and, of course, a merchandise store where you can purchase the CD are at www.richardthompson-music.com.

—Susan Wageman

[Richard Thompson is now touring the U.S. and Canada and in early November will perform in Santa Cruz, Santa Rosa, Portland, Seattle, and beyond with Emmylou Harris and Rodney Crowell. He returns to California in January 2014 to perform in Saratoga. —Ed.]

PETE SEEGERThe Storm King

Hachette Audio, 2013

We spent a delightful two and a half hours listening to this two-CD compilation of Pete Seeger relating 24 of his own personal tales. Pete has had a long and interesting life during which he traveled the world and performed at a wide range of venues from Madison Square Garden to a village in Kenya, meeting and interacting with an enormous variety of individuals. We were familiar with most of these stories, but hearing them in Pete's own words added considerable depth to the anecdotes. Some of the information was new to us. For instance, from the track entitled "Tzena, Tzena, Tzena," which includes some words from one of the song's composers, we learned that there are lyrics in Hebrew, English, and Arabic. There are also some stories about Toshi, Pete's wife of more than 60 years, who died this past July, and about their parents and grandparents.

The album was produced by Jeff Haynes, a world-renowned percussionist, composer, and producer, who had worked with Pete on an earlier recording project, the 2009 Grammy award-winning CD Tomorrow's Children. While working on this project, Pete, as he is likely to do at the drop of a pick, told Jeff a number of stories, and Jeff found them interesting enough to record. He spent the next three and a half years turning these narratives into The Storm King.

Each of the stories is backed up by very tasteful music played by a passel of musicians on a wide variety of instruments, from cello to obsidian chimes to mbira to saxophone. The music is kept at a low volume so that it enhances the spoken word but never distracts from it. The overall effect is simply amazing.

You can hear excerpts of this historic production at www.peteseegerthestormking.com and purchase it in the form of an audio book at www.hachettebookgroup.com.

Where are you going my Rodney-O
I'm joining a ship in Scapa Flow,
That's where I'm going, my Nancy
I'm joining Invincible, Nancy-O
Joining Invincible, Nancy-O
She's bristling with guns, she's ready to go
To sail to glory with Jellicoe
But where is Invincible—Gone now
And where is the glory—Gone now
And six thousand sailors—Gone now
They have gone to the bottom at Jutland

Les says about this song:

"As a songwriter and ex-Royal Navy man, the loss of life at Jutland, both British and German, had long been in my mind as the basis for a song. As it happens, I am also an ex-professional scuba diver, so when a friend of mine telephoned me from a boat above the wreck of the Invincible to tell me they had just found it, I sat down and wrote the song. I wanted to write a song with a chorus that was meaningful and easy to sing, as in the UK folk scene joining in the chorus is most popular. I am pleased to report that a well-known German folk singer sings this song substituting German ships."

Five Pounds

Young Jack he stole a - way one night, his for-tune for - to seek But a young ma-rine did him es - py, Jack's pros-pects did - look bleak; A far-rier's wife, she took him in, those boys they searched - in vain, Young Jack weren't found so no five pounds, Let's drink Jack's health a - Chorus:
gain! Pounds, five pounds me boys, five pounds it will - be yours, For bring - ing back poor sai - lors who should not be a - shore.

Young Jack he stole away one night his fortune for to seek
But a young marine did him espy Jack's prospects did look bleak
A farrier's wife, she took him in those boys they searched in vain
Young Jack weren't found so no five pounds let's drink Jack's health again

Chorus:
Pounds, five pounds me boys, five pounds it will be yours
For bringing back poor sailors who should not be ashore

Young George crept out one cold grey night to swim ashore or drown
But sadly he was seen me boys by agents of the Crown
Young George's fate made strong men weep he was whipped the whole fleet round
So cursed be all the King's damned men who earn their damned five pounds
Chorus

They wait there still on Portsdown Hill with pistol on their knee
A watching o'er the roads me boy for ships just come from sea
Their spies they wait round the dockyard gate from here to Plymouth sound
God strike them dead for men that bled and died for those five pounds
Chorus

Then there was me two years I'd been away from England's strand
I had to get ashore me boys set feet upon this land
I had not gone but five miles hence when pressmen ambushed me
But no five pounds was shared around when I showed my ticket of leave
Chorus

Les says:
" Portsdown Hill is a long chalk hill in Hampshire, England, offering good views over Portsmouth, the Solent, Hayling Island and Gosport, with the Isle of Wight beyond — so perfect for the pressmen."

members of all ages and experience levels. All workshops and activities are camper-led, and any camper can sign up to teach or lead a workshop.

WORKSHOPS: All workshops and activities are camper-led, and any camper can sign up to teach or lead a workshop. Anyone may attend any workshop, and beginners are especially urged to try anything they might like. Activities with children in mind are welcomed and encouraged.

If you would like to lead a workshop, you can sign up at camp, or at <http://www.mudcat.org/thread.cfm?ThreadID=151682>. Look for more information in the Nov/Dec folknik.

CONCERTS: Each evening there is a concert and a different themed dance in the dance hall. Concerts are planned entirely at camp, so prepare something special to show off or be inspired once you get here.

For more information about camp, please visit www.sffmc.org! We hope to see you there.

Folk Music & Beyond Schedule

Folk Music and Beyond airs Saturdays, 3:00–5:00 PM on 91.7 KALW. It is hosted by Jo Ann Mar & Bob Campbell. More INFO at kalw.org/programs/folk-music-beyond.

9/7—Hymns, Chants, and Anthems: Songs by Linda Waterfall, Ayla Nereo, Tibetan exile singer Yungchen Lhamo, and Mercedes Bahleda.

9/14—A Fall Surprise!

9/21—Rivers to the Sea: Cathy Ryan, Joanne Rand, Tish Hinojosa, Greg Brown, Styx, and more surprises.

9/28—The Bills Live: This five-member Canadian ensemble has forged a musical style all their own that transcends musical boundaries and defies simple categorization.

10/5—Fall Songs: Fall colors and moods, from Robin Williamson, Jay Ansill, Steve Tilston, Anne Hills, Karine Polwart, and others.

10/12—25th Anniversary!: “Folk Music & Beyond” is celebrating 25 years on the air! Highlights from past shows.

10/19—Continental: Music from Brittany, elsewhere in France, the Czech Republic, Bosnia, Romany groups, and more.

10/26—Music and Conversation with Archie Fisher: In this encore broadcast, Archie Fisher talks about the inspirations for some of his songs, his friendship with the late Stan Rogers, his collaborations with Garnet Rogers and John Renbourn, and why it took him twenty years to record his most recent CD “Windward Away.”

Dance Then, Wherever You May Be (Part 4)

by Robert Rodriguez

Everyone knows of the tragic demise of John the Baptist, all because of a row with a royal family and a vengeful tripper of the light fantastic. The good Baptist was a hellfire and brimstone type who would have put Cotton and Increase Mather to shame. One of his favorite targets was the Judean royal family, and in particular, Herodias, the wife of Herod Antipas, the Roman stooge in charge of Palestine. Herodias was his wife, but not legally, as she had left his brother Philip, to whom she had also been wed, for greener royal pastures. To make matters even more complicated, she was also, by kinship and blood, the niece of Antipas and Philip as well.

Herodias' daughter, Salome, was a very seductive lass and an accomplished dancer. Antipas was taken with her dancing skills, and one night he begged, pleaded, and cajoled her into dancing for him, promising her anything she wanted, even half of his kingdom and precious jewels that even her mother did not possess. At first, she pouted and refused, but after more begging from the king, she put on quite a show, which morphed Antipas into utter transports of joy, passion and delight. Here it gets more than a bit grisly—sorry for that, gang—when Antipas asked her what she wanted, she simply asked for the head of the Baptist on a silver platter because, in her own words, she wanted to look at it.

On June 22, 1940, a strange tableau took place in a clearing in the forest of Compiègne in northern France. A week earlier, Paris had fallen to the advancing Nazi forces and it was only a matter of days till the French would officially surrender to the Germans. To further humiliate the French, Hitler decided to stage the surrender in the same railway carriage where the Germans had been forced to surrender to the French in 1918. Hitler ordered the entire procedure filmed while he danced a jig. This film was later broadcast throughout Germany to show the invincibility of the Nazi military juggernaut. One can only speculate that in later years Hitler did not do any celebratory jigs after El Alamein, Stalingrad, and Kursk, as he saw the handwriting on the wall and the Third Reich crashed into ruin.

When Patrick Henry was successful in a legal challenge to the Church of England in a colonial Virginia law court in 1774, he celebrated his triumph by retiring to his father-in-law's tavern and organizing an all-night dance, where, it is said, he was the very best dancer of them all and lasted till the rising of the sun. Nearly two decades later, a naval battle off the coast of Nova Scotia would have a strange consequence. On August 19, 1812, Captain Isaac Hull's ship, the Constitution, defeated the British frigate, Guerrière. Little did Hull know that his naval success would lead to a dance being named in his honor—a dance still done today called Hull's Victory.

During the Tang dynasty, in ancient China, entire villages would dance during times of solar eclipse in order to bring about the return of the sun, and when it did indeed come back, they would thank the celestials for hearing their pleas. The Incas also danced to bring back the sun when an eclipse would occur, as well as the people of India, Egypt, and northern Canada. In medieval Europe, during times of plague and epidemic, entire populations would dance in order to drive disease from their midst and some dancers would disguise themselves as actual skeletons in order to fool the Grim Reaper into thinking they were already dead. During the final days of World War One, it is reported that the Ottoman rulers ordered all Dervishes to continually dance in an attempt to prevent the disintegration of the Turkish state and its government. It is said that these religious militants danced for days and weeks on end, but to no avail.

One of the darkest chapters in American history occurred on December 29, 1890, at a place the world came to know as Wounded Knee. It involved the ghost dancers of the northern plains, interwoven with a strange messianic Paiute shaman from Nevada named Wovoka, and an American military thirst for revenge following the defeat of George Custer at Little Big Horn 14 years earlier. The tale of the tragedy at Wounded Knee is too well known to be retold here; it has been poignantly and dramatically told in the 1970 landmark volume, Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee by Dee Brown.

From the twelve dancing princesses who nightly wear out their dancing shoes only to have their activities revealed by a common soldier to the marathon dance craze of the 1920s, and from the dancers of Stanton Drew turned into a standing stone circle by the devil to various folks who had to dance without stopping when magical instruments were played, dancing, as much as music itself, has been part and parcel of world folk literature. Music, dance, and story—what a grand trilogy it is. Long may they bring joy and wonder to one and all today, tomorrow, and for a long time to come.
